

Hazardous Waste Generator Improvements Final Rule – Meeting and Training for Colleges and Universities

The US EPA recently issued the Hazardous Waste Generator Improvements Final Rule incorporating over 60 changes to the hazardous waste generator regulatory program. These changes affect practically every component of the Generator program, and therefore may affect the way colleges and universities identify and manage the hazardous waste they generate. The US EPA will be at Northeastern University (NU) in Boston, MA on January 31, 2017 to provide training and answers to questions for colleges and universities on this rule.

Although the EPA is scheduling some other meetings across the country, these meetings will either involve the regional offices or the state in making the outreach to get generators to the training. What's different with the Boston meeting is that it will be devoted to colleges and universities only. Subsequent training/outreach meetings will be with all types of generators. Since many college and university organizations and forums had big concerns with the rule, EPA thought it would be worthwhile to devote time with them to walk you through the rule and identify questions and concerns colleges and universities still may have.

Meeting Location: Northeastern University Interdisciplinary Science and Engineering Complex (ISEC) auditorium, 805 Columbus Avenue, Boston MA, which is located a short distance from the MBTA's Ruggles Station. The Renaissance Parking Garage at 835 Columbus Avenue is the closest public parking available to ISEC. A light breakfast will be provided at 8:00 AM and the meeting will start promptly at 9:00 am, with a break for lunch at Noon. The afternoon session will go from 1 pm to 3 pm.
